

VIDEO TRANSCODING SERVICES

GET YOUR VIDEO READY FOR ITS CLOSE-UP.

TRANSCODING IS THE PROCESS OF DIRECT FILE-TO-FILE CONVERSION, SOURCING FROM ONE FILE CODEC AND TRANSFORMING INTO ANOTHER.

In the ever-changing world of media distribution, it's inevitable that your older video content was created in formats that are now obsolete or incompatible with today's streaming services. You'll need to transcode your video to be able to reach the immense global audiences that are users of these services, and broadcast, VOD, IPTV, and other digital platforms each have their own specific codecs and file size requirements. It's a complex job, but IMES has you covered. We have the hardware, software, and production expertise to transform your video for seamless multi-platform distribution, so that your content can reach your fans.

WHY CHOOSE IMES FOR 3D SCANNING?

1. SECURITY. We store, digitize assets, transcode, and restore all on site. You save time and money on shipping, as well as eliminate any potential loss or damage to your archive that could occur from excess handling.

2. QUALITY. We've invested in the best people, processes, and technology available so that your video file output is flawless. Recently, we added the Alchemist Converter – the industry's top choice for meeting even the most demanding video needs – to our studio arsenal. Alchemist is recognized throughout the world as the undisputed gold standard of motion-compensated frame rate standards conversion and is the tool of choice to get your video ready for its close-up with streaming audiences.

3. EXPERIENCE. Our studio engineers are experts in end-to-end video asset management. Not only do we use cutting-edge transcoding technology, but we also participate in the development of industry best practices through our involvement with organizations such as AMIA, SMPTE, and the Sports Video Group.
